Flora's Day
Before Flora started her chores, she went to explore. She had just moved in. She took a walk on her new street. Flora saw a food store and a drugstore at one end. At the other end, she saw the shore of the lake. Flora liked her new street. She went home. She had to do her chores. She had even more to do today than usual. Flora had to help unpack all of the boxes. Her family made it a game. They each kept score of how many boxes they unpacked. By the end of the day, Flora was worn out. She lay down on her bed and began to snore.
